The Spinster: Volume 88

*H*ollins marks our memory.
Hollins is not static, it is everchanging. It is alive, it is our life while we are here. Every moment we live is a piece of history.

LIVING A LANDMARK

Paula Pimlott Brownlee. Born in England, educated at Oxford. Scholar, scientist, musician, the seventh president of Hollins College, the third woman to hold that position. Dr. Brownlee is significant in our lives as students. It is she who matriculates us as freshman at Opening Convocation, who welcomes us in her home for a reception our first night on campus, and who maintains close contact with our class every year thereafter.

She is a compelling presence. She throws herself into all that she does with equal conviction and fervor, whether it is the annual Tinker Day declaration from the steps of Main or raising funds for the Capital Campaign. And while we students see her more in the social or ceremonial sphere we often fail to realize the long hours and dedication she invests to promote our college.

Those of us who have contact with her are struck by her penetrating, attentive gaze and her pointed, probing questions. She commands clear, articulate answers. She does so because she cares.

She is demanding of herself, of us, of Hollins. Her commitment to women's education, her spirit and energy, make her a fine example to us all.

Dr. Brownlee came to Hollins in 1981 when the class of 1985 entered as freshmen. They, now seniors approaching a May departure, feel a special bond to her.

She is a landmark in Hollins history, a landmark in our time spent here.

Thank you, Dr. Brownlee. With gratitude and admiration, we dedicate the 1985 Spinster to you.

Hollins: a women's college in the 1980's provides us with the opportunities to make our own history.

The foundation for our existence was laid by our first president Charles Lewis Cocke and his family in 1842. He established this institution for the education of women so that we might experience deep friendships and explore new vistas. Due to the dedication of staff, faculty, administration, alumnae and students, we are still evolving, as Hollins remains one of 110 women's colleges in America today.

The trees, land, and buildings of our front quadrangle merge in significance not only for the Hollins community, but for our country too. Sandra Gubb Baker's ('74) short term study culminated in our front quad receiving historic recognition. Professor W. L. Whitwell sponsored her January Short Term project and in 1974 the Hollins College Front Quadrangle was registered as a National Historic Landmark.

The front quadrangle reflects the character of 19th century spring resorts, the original use of Hollins' land.

West Dormitory is the site where Botetourt Springs Hotel stood before the structure was torn down.

Botetourt Hall, once the college dining hall, is an unusual form, one of the first octagonal structures in Virginia.

Main Building is characterized by Classical Revival and other 19th century styles.

Bradley Hall, once the chapel, suggests the Romanesque style.

East Dormitory, recognized for its Greek Revival architecture and for maintaining its original function, is the oldest building on campus.

Administration Building, formerly the Charles Lewis Cocke Memorial Library, exhibits Academic Classical Architecture. It completed the quadrangle when built in 1908.

Hollins is recognized nationally for its architectural and historic significance. We recognize Hollins for its contributions to our growth. It is our memories of Hollins which mark our lives.

Landmarks that live: each time we look out the dining hall windows we are greeted by the Sulphur Springhouse, more commonly known as the Gazebo. Originally built in 1856, the springhouse was reconstructed in 1960 and with the construction of the new gym it will be relocated in the Forest of Arden.

STUDENT LIFE

Our lifestyle in college was different than it would ever be again. Our restrictions were few and our freedom great. We met in the Banta Room to watch Joan Rivers on The Tonight Show, "Can we talk?". We studied the similar yet different painting styles of Degas and Renoir in the slide room until 1 AM. We stayed up with friends until 3 AM eating hot air-popped popcorn, a Pizza Inn mushroom and pepperoni, and drinking Diet Cokes. Hollins allowed us to choose our own lifestyle. This style was college, this life was Hollins.

MORNING MADNESS

The traditional, daily routine so familiar to the Hollins student, both past and present, evolves into a treasured memory of their landmark college years — those few years spent learning and growing with special friends who will soon part to enter the working world.

As the alarm rings we often wonder why we registered for those 8:30 a.m. Monday, Wednesday, Friday classes.

"Eat your heart out Jane Fonda!" say these fitness conscious students who move to the beat of Kissy McCrory's rigorous aerobics workouts every Monday and Wednesday morning.

Getting mail is an essential part of any student's day. These two freshmen check their boxes for the third time today.

Beth Yancey reads all about the Democrats' landmark choice of a woman, Congresswoman Geraldine Ferraro, as Walter F. Mondale's Vice-Presidential running-mate in the 1984 Presidential election.

Mimi Rainero convinces herself that the IBM Personal Computer is indeed a most efficient tool for students in the 1980's as she puts the finishing touches on her latest program.

ALL IN A DAY'S WORK

Ice cream for lunch on Fridays is one of Hollins' modern traditions. After waiting patiently for the scooper, Zoe Snyder helps herself to a serving of coffee ice cream.

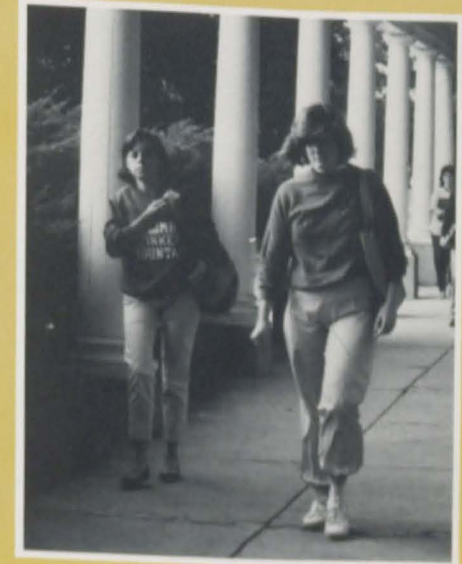

In addition to providing those yummy favorites — burger bars, international buffets, and pizza and beer dinners — the Moody Dining Hall is an ideal spot to take a break with friends between classes like Kristin Evans, Teresa Wenke, and Annalisa Crisafulli.

Beth Radford and Ginny Trawick decide that it is finally time to do their laundry.

Jennifer Orr and Susan Cabot Bryan catch afternoon classes instead of soaps.

In search of more paper Jessica Guttry shops at the bookstore.

AFTERNOON DELIGHTS

As late afternoon classes adjourn and hungry Hollins girls await their dinner, the campus settles into a peaceful solitude.

On a sunny April day this creekside embankment near the Little Theatre becomes a classroom.

Abby Francis, Kim Kittrell, and Julie Dalton have not come back empty handed from their little shopping expedition. With all their purchases it is a long walk back from Siberia.

Felicity Coddington has found the perfect place to study: Front Quad.

Linda Yancey and Jennifer Wowak enjoy the music by Spiedel, Goodrich, and Goggin at the first Sunday Patio Party.

NOCTURNAL NOTIONS

Darkness may have fallen, but the campus does not sleep yet. There is too much left to do.

From the depths of her closet Laura Poteet poses the well known question "What am I going to wear?" as she prepares for a campus Mixer.

One diligent student catches forty winks between chapters while Martha Moser continues to burn the midnight oil in the Botetourt Study Room.

The perfect interval between Dynasty and late night studies — a delivery from Pizza Inn! Eyeing the pepperoni are Nancy Kennerdell, Tyler Beasley, and Russell Ashton.

Where, oh where have the students gone? To bed, to books, to boys, to Bacchus?

Landmarks that live: almost every Hollins student begins her Hollins experience by passing through these three arches of Main into the Admissions Office. According to legend, you must always walk through the center arch — if you walk through the left arch down the steps you will never marry. If you pass through the right arch you will never graduate. We end our Hollins experience by marching through the center arch to graduation.

SENIORS

The first time the seniors were drawn together as a class, Sandra J. Lovinguth, Director of Admissions, provided the freshman class (the class of 1985) statistics.

In September 1984 they first gathered in caps and gowns for Opening Convocation to once again be presented as the class of 1985, but this time as seniors.

Seniors busied themselves with resumé writing, mock interviewing, filling out applications and taking GRE's for their postgraduate career and grad school plans. The class of 1985 also enjoyed the senior traditions: giving the juniors their class rings, laying the wreath on Charles Lewis Cocke's gravesite and living out their roommate's fantasy 100 nights before commencement.

The senior year: an exclamation of the college career. As the seniors graduated they realized that their involvement with Hollins had not culminated. Their association with Hollins would last forever; as alumnae they would carry throughout life reasoning and communicating skills gained at Hollins.

Landmarks that live: built in 1890, our 24 hour a day study room in Botetourt Hall once bustled with activity as a dining room before the Moody Center was completed in 1975. Each student was required to dress for dinner where they sat at white clothed tables with the same faculty member for each meal.

UNDERCLASSES

Hollins offers underclassmen many opportunities to grow emotionally, spiritually and academically, as it has to students since 1842. We associate each year with a different aspect of our growth. Freshman year taught us to live away from home, Sophomore year brought major decisions and Junior year a seriousness towards our goals.

The next best thing to having a real pet is a stuffed one. Kristin Waskowicz, as a mover and shaker, carries the buddy of a freshman into the dorm.

Kathie Kelly looks mighty frustrated with that ruler. Long hours in the Rat working on yearbook pages can be mind-boggling.

JUST PASSED THE HALFWAY MARK

Two down, two to go . . . the class of '86 began its Junior year with anxiety and enthusiasm. The first two years of their college career had been completed, and the second half of their journey would hold many adventures. The third year was quite a shuffled one with some class members leaving to study abroad and others returning. Some chose to study for a semester in the exchange program with another institution. Whatever the case may be, the separations and changes were mostly temporary and the class of '86 had one thing in common to look forward to, wherever they may be: their senior year was not far away, and they would all be reunited in time to spend their final year together at Hollins College.

Juniors Mary Catherine Andrews and Anna Howe share their summer experiences with Senior Michelle DeRussy after returning to the Hollins campus.

Hard Rock Café, Café Pacifico, the Tower of London, and the tube system are fond recollections for a Hollins student who has spent a semester in London. The beginning of each semester, one in September and one in February, marked a three-and-a-half month adventure for the overseas travellers.

While one learned a great deal academically at the University of London, many experiences existed outside the classroom: the theatre, the impressive collections within the London art galleries and museums, the concerts, the operas and the ballets. The Hollins London Abroad program is one of few to house the students with English families. This arrangement provided the student with a direct insight to the British culture.

The ten day breaks in each semester provided a chance for the students to travel throughout Great Britain and continental Europe. This break allowed the students to see firsthand many historical sights and artistic works that had been previously discussed in the London classrooms.

Those students who travelled abroad on this program agree it was a unique experience, never to be forgotten. This semester in London was an opportunity to meet people, strengthen old friendships and to grow in a situation and atmosphere different to that of the Hollins campus in Roanoke, Virginia.

Paris Abroad

Living eleven months in a foreign country with a native family and attending classes taught in a foreign language are the principle encounters faced by students in the Hollins Abroad Paris program. The Hollins program was designed to run from mid January of the students' sophomore year through mid December of the junior year in order to give an understanding of French culture, as well as the language. Participants learned what life was really like in Paris by staying with a French family and experiencing with them those aspects of everyday life that could never be understood by reading a textbook.

The summer months provided time to work or travel throughout Europe. Classes reconvened in mid September for the fall term. Before long, the students found themselves preparing to return home for Christmas. The year abroad is never forgotten. The students' experiences taught them more about themselves and broadened their knowledge of human culture.

NO LONGER NEW

The second year in one's college career has been nicknamed the "Sophomore slump"! Most Hollins students would tend to agree; however, that the Sophomore year was not quite a slump, but a challenge. No longer could these students use the excuse of being new, except for a few transfer students who decided to join the group. Important questions about the future were faced: studying abroad, narrowing down academic interests in order to declare a major, and searching the working world for a career field. The decisions serve as landmarks of the Sophomore year; they direct the path for the remainder of the journey at Hollins, perhaps even for the rest of our lives. Other aspects such as ordering class rings, joining clubs and organizations, and having a Senior big sister highlighted the second year and made it more enjoyable.

THE FIRST STEP IN THE HOLLINS DIRECTION

The experiences of being a Freshman in college were landmarks of their own. For some, it was the first time living away from home, and for all, it was a new kind of freedom that was not always easy to deal with. New decisions to make . . . new people to live with . . . new places to go . . . new classes to take . . . new things to do . . . The Freshman year was by far not the easiest one to live through, but it was the first step in the right direction — the HOLLINS direction!

Landmarks that live: on November 17, 1924 Hollins' students proudly christened their new gymnasium. Like the Little Theatre, the gymnasium was funded through student efforts. Hollins participated in intercollegiate swimming until 1980. The addition to and renovation of Tayloe gymnasium will renew aquatic sports at Hollins.

SPORTS

In the spring of 1985 ground was broken for Phase I of the new gymnasium complex. Completing the back quadrangle, this facility which unites Hollins' past with Hollins' future provides adequate space for all students to participate in athletics. Hollins offers no athletic scholarships, so students who play do so for enjoyment, themselves and to show their spirit for Hollins. Faculty, staff and students supported athletics at Hollins: team spirit started with the first day of practice and continued through the last play.

soccer's excellent team

"An excellent team" was the comment coming from the coach of the Hollins soccer team, Ms. Marjorie Berkley. She gave nothing but praise for this year's group of athletes. They suffered only one loss to the number one seed in the Old Dominion Athletic Conference, Randolph-Macon, Ashland.

Chase Wagner, team captain, has a strong group and maneuvered them through wet weather and high temperatures to victory. Younger sister, Sarah Wagner, scored seventeen goals and is leading scorer in ODAC for the second year in a row and also ODAC's All Conference Player. Tris Berryman is second leading scorer for Hollins with seven goals.

Looking back, Coach Berkley says, "We had a wonderful season and are looking forward to ODAC at Randolph-Macon Ashland on October 26."

volleyball rebuilds

The Hollins volleyball team was relatively young this year. There were several freshmen and first-time players. Hollins did; however, have the advantage of veterans Anne Shanks, Laura Markham, (team captains) and Caroline Russell who served, spiked and set the team to its victories.

Where Hollins may have lacked in points, they more than compensated in spirit. From an eight-in-a-row serving streak by Russell to grueling, close games with schools like Sweetbriar, they pulled together to support each other. Carol Goodwill, the team's coach, complimented her athletes, "They are a young but talented group of girls. The scores don't reflect how strong the team is."

Though the volleyball season may not have been what the players and their coach hoped for, with strong, continued effort, they will grow to be a winning team at Hollins.

re ra hockey!

"Thank you _____ (a team), thank you officials, Re, Ra hockey!" was the familiar chant which consistently followed each hockey game, whether lost or won. Its enthusiastic call best embodies the spirit of this year's hockey team; play to win, but most of all, play to enjoy the game.

There were many new and first time players. During the season these women learned the basics and played well. Along with the eight veterans, the group banded together and played commendably against such formidable opponents as Roanoke College and Eastern Mennonite. Coach McCrory commented that she had "a consistent defense, a group of talented freshmen and a high-spirited team with great morale."

When the game is over, only the numbers and memories remain. Unfortunately, the scores often don't reflect the accomplishments of the team or each individual member's personal bests. But this year's hockey team will look back and have only fond memories of games evenly played and a team who "hung in their together and fought hard until the last."

hollins fencing a spirited team

The Fencing Team is a competitive and determined group. They have had several setbacks this year, but they have confidence in their ability to excel. Lanetta Ware, Hollins' Fencing Coach says, "Fencing isn't easy. It is strenuous both mentally and physically. It takes a unique kind of person to do well in the sport."

Hollins has lost one of their top fencers, Margaret Carter who graduated in January. Also, Mary Baldwin chose swimming and diving over fencing as a sport for ODAC competition, leaving only three schools in ODAC fencing. This means that there can be no ODAC championship competition. Despite this, Hollins remains an ODAC team and continues to compete against ODAC and non-conference colleges.

Hollins started its first Fencing club in 1904. Since then, it has become a devastating opponent on the strip and has built a reputation for sportsmanlike conduct. With the experience of its coach and continued support among its team members, Hollins is a sure winner.

The Hollins Riding Program has long been coupled with equestrian excellence. Guy Burkholder and Nancy Peterson instruct their new student riders and veterans with fervor and take great pride with the rest of Hollins in their achievements whether it be completing a first jump or winning a national championship. Every accomplishment counts.

Some may not be aware of it, but Hollins has two groups of riders, the riding club and the riding team. The Hollins Riding Club is made of any student at Hollins who enrolls in a riding class. They study not only riding in the ring, but also films of riding and other equestrian events such as fox hunts. Some of the club members participate in nearby activities such as the Rockbridge Foxhunts on Saturdays. Others take Hollins horses to shows. Lucinda McIver on Walking Tall won the Student Hunter and Working Hunter competitions, and Linda France on No Foolin' was a Reserve Champion.

The Riding Team is made of members of the club whose distinction is to compete intercollegiately at schools such as VPI & SU and UNC Chapel Hill. They must ride horses provided by the school hosting the competitions. Some must ride for points which will qualify them for regionals or national competition. Hollins has certainly excelled in this area. There were two intercollegiate champions, Elizabeth Wood in the Over Fences section of Novice Equitation and Holly Russell in On-the-Flat section of Novice Equitation. This fall Hollins has been a participant in four intercollegiate horse shows. Out of the four they have been Reserve High Point Team to Southern Seminary three times (equivalent to a second place) and was the champion High Point Team at the UNC Chapel Hill show.

In bitter cold weather and heat Hollins practices to be the best. The new indoor riding facilities have made it easier on horse and rider alike. With an experienced coaching staff, talented students and well-trained horses, Hollins and riding will always remain a perfect combination.

basketball: new and improved

The basketball team had a full schedule which included meetings with some of last year's roughest opponents. How did they do? On many occasions, they came through with flying colors. Example: last year Hollins suffered a defeat with Lynchburg College and was also beaten by Mary Baldwin. This year, they lost by only eleven and nine points respectively to Lynchburg in the two matches and defeated Mary Baldwin in their first meeting.

The team this year was a talented and spunky group made of many freshmen. They, along with the returning players, made the Hollins fans proud of their performances. Kissy Mc-

Crory, coach, had only complimentary things to say about her team. "We had a good season," she said. "It was a young team with lots of talented and fun freshman! This year, we cut the point margins on all opponents from last year. The future looks very exciting for us." Hollins lost only two seniors from last year and will lose two this year, Sara Minnifield and Floy Covington.

The Basketball team's overall record does not reflect how well this team played or how hard they worked. They have certainly advanced far ahead of some of their predecessors. With continued hard practice and the go-get'em spirit this team possesses, Hollins will quickly advance to number one.

lacrosse gets a face-lift

The Lacrosse Team for 1984-85 was a mixture of many new players and some very talented veterans such as Lisa Bixby, Laura Miller, and Jill Golden. The team also has a new coach, Mary Lewis, from Centre College in Kentucky. She and the team are enthusiastic about this season's performances.

Attending a practice provided an opportunity to watch Coach Lewis and team at work. She was very supportive and encouraging of her players and they were willing to work hard to master their skills. The players freely exchanged helpful suggestions on technique and game pointers. Coach Lewis added her observations with specific ideas for improvement.

The Lacrosse season starts late in the year; therefore, no scores are available at this printing. However, the confidence and willingness to work that this team shows plus fresh, new ideas from a new coach will surely make the lacrosse season a successful one for Hollins.

SCORES (FALL) HOLLINS VS.

Emory and Henry	8-1
Lynchburg	9-0
Sweetbriar	9-0
Mary Baldwin	9-0
Randolph-Macon Ashland	8-1
Randolph-Macon Women's	8-1
Mary Washington	4-5

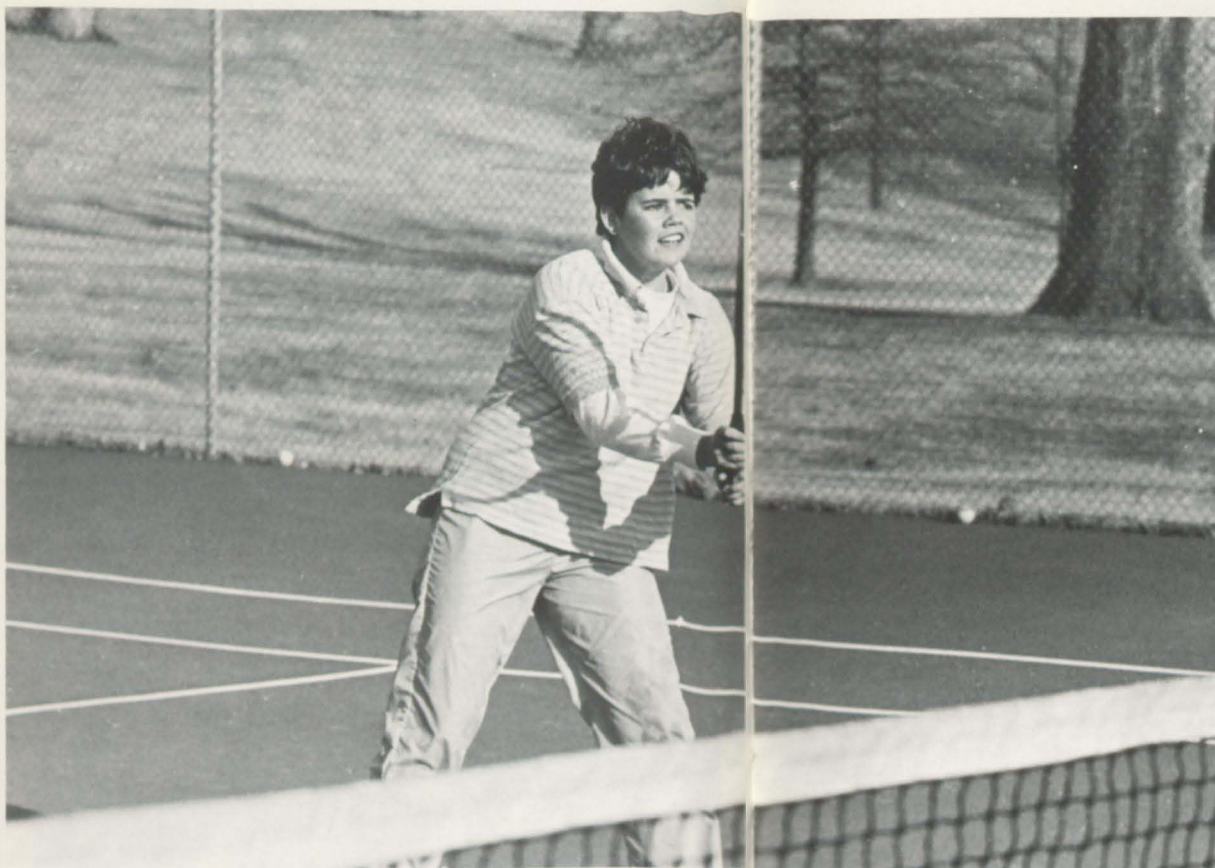

As the 1984 fall tennis season began, Coach Carol Goodwill knew that it was going to be a winning season. The team won their first match against Emory and Henry with a smashing 8-1 victory. The team finished the season as number one in their conference. Their only loss was to Mary Washington College, a close 4-5. As Coach Carol Goodwill observed, "Their scores reflect their superior skill and talent."

The spring tennis team; however, lost four of its top six fall members, Coach Carol Goodwill rebuilt the team. All but two of the girls were freshmen. Coach Goodwill comments, "The team has a lot of potential and good strength to merge as a well-balanced team. I foresee us doing well in ODAC. Our two toughest opponents; however, will be outside of the conference: Radford and Mary Washington."

Landmarks that live: legend has it that if a male kisses you while you stand on one of the millstones in the center of the quadrangle, he will eventually be your husband. Some of the millstones were brought here in 1954 from John Hollins's mill near Lynchburg, Virginia. His contribution of $5,000.00 in 1855 induced the new Board of Trustees to Honor him by renaming the Female Seminary at Botetourt Springs to Hollins Institute.

ORGANIZATIONS

It would be hard to imagine living at Hollins four years without being involved with a group. Our extracurricular opportunities included something for everyone. The many diverse organizations catered to the differing interests of all students. We contributed to Hollins through these associations and our involvement with them contributed to our life skills.

The Student Government Association enables students to participate in the formation of academic and social policies affecting them. It is divided into three branches. The Student Senate constitutes the legislative branch. This year more senate positions were created to allow greater student representation. The senators were invested with the power to make final decisions on issues and policies brought before it. The judicial branch includes the Honor Court, the Appeal Board, and the Campus Life Committee. Also new this year is the organization of the executive branch. It is now divided into two groups: The Administrative Board composed of all Student Government Association officers and the Executive Council with eleven members.

Composed of one representative from each class, the Academic Planning Committee assists in planning and implementing special programs and luncheons. Back Row: Martha Terrell Harris, Martina Boehmfeldt. Front Row: Mattie Quesenberry (chair), Colette Foster.

The purpose of Academic Policy is to deal with the academic concerns of students such as course changes and grading. Academic Policy is also involved in organizing monitors for the independent exam system. Back Row: Laura Sim, Jan Acela, Anne Kurtzahn. Front Row: Jamie Granger, Tara Pugh, Robyn Ryan (chair). The strong literary tradition at Hollins was reflected through both journalistic and creative writing this year. In the fall, Grapheon, the student literary society, sponsored a spooky Halloween reading with Richard Dillard, Professor of English. Cargoes, the literary magazine published in the spring, featured poetry and fiction works. The editorial board of the Spinster met every Monday evening to plan and carry out the construction of the yearbook. A lot of investigative reporting was consolidated and layed out each week in order for the Hollins Columns to make its regular appearance outside the dining hall.

When a house is built a contractor pays close attention to details, a foundation is laid to support the structure, a framework is constructed with care and finally, beams reinforce the roof. When the project is completed, steps are taken to protect it from the elements.

Our education at Hollins marked a time of self-construction. With each of our accomplishments, we contributed to a strong foundation — one which will fare us well against the elements of the world. As we learned more about ourselves and others, we cultivated friendships which became a framework for our futures. College experiences from freshman year through graduation provided us with knowledge and insight — sustaining beams for our lives. Another year at Hollins ended, for some the first and for some the last. We continued to refine ourselves — by building and fostering friendships, continuing to search for knowledge and never ruling out new experiences.

Hollins, as a physical plant, has been carefully preserved so it can continue to provide a place for us to grow. As an emotional plant, Hollins provided us the means to challenge ourselves and each other.

Each of us, through what we were and what we did at Hollins became a part of Hollins. We can each be a sustaining brick of Hollins, just as Hollins has and will continue to reinforce us.

EDITOR'S NOTE

Editorship of this yearbook enveloped my senior year. Fortunately, I had many friends and a dedicated staff to help me carry out this project.

The theme, "Living a Landmark" was inspired by my summer internship at Pittsburgh History and Landmarks Foundation in 1984. The theme was formalized with the help of Jan Acela, Lauren Dickie and Linda Steele.

Holly Burnett and I decided to abandon use of the Spinster darkroom and used Beckner Photography for film developing and printing. This decision relieved the photographers the time consuming responsibility of film developing and printing in order that they would give more attention to picture taking.

The section editors, who met as a group each Monday evening to ask questions, receive information and give progress reports, contacted their photographers for picture requests.

I thank the photographers, section editors and general staff members for their contributions.

Many thanks to: Holly Burnett for her energy, commitment and comic relief, Jan Acela for her writing assistance, Caroline Sullivan for designing the cover and for her art consultation, Kay Lawson for writing the dedication, the 1984-85 Publications Board for being a support group, Lelia Crabtree, Nancy Dahlstrom and Linda Steele for their ideas and encouragement, Mom and Dad for their support. Special appreciation goes to my apartment mates, Liz, Floy and Anne, for sharing the rewards and challenges, for living with layouts and croppers, for taking phone messages, for listening to me and for occasionally handing me the blue box of Kleenex tissues from the bathroom. Dreamgirls . . . we are a family.

COLOPHON:

The 1985 edition of The Spinster was printed by Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas, Texas represented by Ms. Lelia Crabtree.

The 200 pages of the 900 copies were printed on 80 pound Sterling Litho Gloss enamel paper stock.

The cover, designed by Caroline Sullivan, class of 1985, is an embossed custom design on Lexotone Tan No. 601 with White No. 911 applied.

Endsheet stock is Vivi-Text, Tan No. 12.

Body copy is printed in 10 point standard Palatino and candid captions are printed in 10 point solid Palatino Bold.

This 88th volume of The Spinster includes 8 pages in four-color and 5 pages of spot color No. 78 at 40%.

Braaten Photography of Roanoke, Virginia received the student portraits contract. Some of Richard Braaten's photographs were used in the dedication, divisions pages and opening.

The Hollins College Information Office gave the staff access to their photograph files for use of pictures.

Landmarks that live: high marks were once given to pupils in the 1856 classroom in East Dormitory. Furnished with these original desks, some professors still hold classes here today.

FACULTY

Hollins' size permits for personal attention. Hollins' professors are approachable, not strictly during their office hours, but at meals, at extracurricular events, even at their homes.

Faculty brought their homelife to Hollins; Amelia (Sheepdog) Dahlstrom, Benjamin (Basset Hound) Houska and Culprit (loveable mixture) Sinclair visited Moody Dining Hall, Econ 157 and chapel events.

Mealtime was a social hour for students and professors. Breakfast meant Dean Holmes sat at his window table and Tuesdays brought faculty and administrators to Moody for a free breakfast and camaraderie with students. The favor was often reciprocated in faculty homes.

It is special that professors care. Knowing that professors care is Hollins.

Landmarks that live: in the early years of Hollins when it was the Valley Union Seminary at Botetourt Springs, students did not only come for the fine education, but they were attracted by the life-giving waters brought forth by the sulphur springs. The limestone springhouse located between West and Botetourt Hall is the oldest structure on campus.

TRADITIONS

Many students thought about the original event which once done twice became a tradition in Hollins' history. The origins of these events were vague, but it was our community's closeness obtained through these traditions which was savored. The traditions are a survival; they linked the present with the past and united our community with a Hollins of yesteryear.

Senior class members on Tinker Mountain after the exchange of class songs.

A CHANGE IN TRADITION?

Would it be on a Tuesday, a Wednesday, or maybe even a Thursday this year? There was the Tinker Day scare and the mysterious thirteen strikes of the church bell at midnight, which by legend forewarned us of Tinker Day's arrival ... yet still, no Tinker Day. Finally, on Tuesday, October 16 at 7 am the bells rang out and once again we all rushed to the dining hall for Krispy Kreme doughnuts!

The traditional activities associated with Tinker Day were slightly altered this year. Lee Hartman, Jr., who owned 120 acres of the mountain, asked President Brownlee not to climb Tinker Mountain because she vocally opposed the 346-foot television tower that was to be built on top of the mountain.

Despite the discord, the Hollins students carried on the Tinker Day tradition of climbing the mountain for songs and feast. Only this time the students returned to Tinker Beach so that President Brownlee could join the students for Tinker Day cake and skits.

President Brownlee sparks the spirit of the day with the annual Tinker Day proclamation from Main's steps.

"But in the discrepancy that falls between what one could be and what one is, there lies the great challenge . . ."

This is the statement of Freya, an anonymous group of students and faculty dedicated to the principle that concern for the community is a creative and vital source. Freya functions as a mediative body between faculty, administration, and students. It tries to fill the gaps left by other organizations on campus and responds as a body to the needs of the college. The group serves the community through the Freya Scholarship Fund and the Freya Emergency Relief Fund.

Freya

Freya continues their tradition of midnight walks to maintain tangible contact with the community and to draw attention to events or issues of college or national importance.

Founder's Day

On Thursday, February 21st, the college celebrated the birth and life of its founder, Charles Lewis Cocke. At noon, the seniors met on Front Quad dressed in their gowns. From there, they walked to the Cocke family cemetery and placed a wreath on Mr. Cocke's grave. At 8 p.m. in the DuPont Chapel, Shirley Chisholm, former New York Congresswoman and 1972 Presidential candidate, addressed the Hollins community on "Women and Work in America: Then and Now." A reception followed convocation in the Green Drawing Room, ending a special day for Hollins students.

Happy Birthday Matty Cocke!

The students celebrated Matty Cocke's birthday on October 23rd, in the Rathskeller. Matty Cocke held many positions while at Hollins including teacher, librarian, registrar, and president of the college. During her presidency, the students joined her in celebrating her birthday. The tradition has continued since her death in 1933. This year Mr. Tom Mesner made an appearance as Matty Cocke and jumped out of a birthday cake. Students celebrated by singing songs and eating cake and ice cream.

Step Singing

"We have a selection, to add to our collection ... of those elected to the hall of fame ... and we're sure you'll agree, that this our nominee, (blank)(blank) is her name!" This chant is traditionally sung from the steps of the Administration Building to recognize the election of new Student Government Association officers. Here the 1984-85 SGA officers announce the new officers for the 1985-86 school year after the March elections.

Val Scott, elected the 1985-86 president, receives a congratulatory hug from Helen Crumbliss and Mary Wadland.

Secret Desires Revealed

With one-hundred nights left before graduation, Debby Burt and Laura "Julia" Sims participated in the traditional exchange of secret desires.

The Dean of Students staff are the hostesses of the party. Kay Johnson, Marnie Evans, Gerry Davis, Sue Wilkins, Carmon Weaver, Joannie Perreault and Kathy Hiserodt serve the seniors and faculty guests wine, cheese, and crackers.

The Dreamgirls, Anne Shanks, Floy Covington, Liz Kennelly, and Sissy Hopton stole the show and took home the Richard Gere award for the performance that left the audience breathless.

The seniors chose as judges of the skits Jack Atwell, Carol Goodwill and Tom Mesner and entrusted them the difficult task of awarding the prizes.

It's Ring Night!

Superstars Tina Turner (Julia Schmerler) and Dolly Parton (Ann McKibbin) are more than ready to perform for their unknown senior ring sisters!

Lionel Richie, alias Claire Richard sings "his" heart out to "his" fans.

Little did LouAnn Katz, Leslie White, Claire Lowman, Kim Kelly, and Meg Josephthal know that when they signed up for ring night that they would be portraying the singing group DEVO.

A rare picture of Prince Andrew (Diane Hall) and Queen Mum (Leslie Bracken) enjoy dinner and a Heineken.

Before dinner, Olympians Marylou Retton (Glynis Cox) and Carl Lewis (Jenny Pettinga) lead the crowd in the singing of our national anthem.

Ghostbusters, a popular movie from the summer of 1984, is the theme for this group of juniors. Laura Swicker, Jamie Lewis, Susie Cambria, Andrea Black and Anna Howe, are instructed by their ring sisters to dress up and perform the popular theme song before receiving their rings.
